Watertown Police Department Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force

The Watertown Police Detective Division is an active ICAC Task Force member, proactively investigating internet crimes. Our investigative focus is on the distribution of child pornography and the sexual solicitation of children through chat rooms, social networks, and other means. Our agency has the equipment and means to investigate these high tech crimes. We work with other area departments, state and federal agencies to accomplish these tasks.

The Watertown Police Department and the Watertown School system have collaboratively created an internet safety presentation geared towards students at Swift Junior High and the Watertown High School. The presentation's intent is to educate students on not only how to protect themselves from predators, but also on how to keep themselves from breaking the law while using the internet. The Watertown Police Department also provides Internet Safety Presentations for parents and guardians.

Being the semi-random creep that I am, I sometimes check up on Anon to see if anyone I know has been posted up. I even recommended it as my top pick for "revenge porn sites" these days. That place was loaded with a bunch of random nudes of legally aged chicas from every state.

Computer held child porn images

BY JONATHAN SHUGARTS REPUBLICAN-AMERICAN

WATERBURY — Police arrested a 32-year-old city man who they say had more than 50 images of child pornography on his laptop computer, including a young girl being sexually abused.

██████████, of ██████████ St., Apt. 6H, admitted to obtaining the porn online, but also told police he used his neighbor's wireless connection for some of the downloads.

Watertown Detective Mark Conway was working undercover to find computers that held illegal porn. While looking for suspect machines in October, he identified a computer that was using a file-sharing program that allows users to swap video and music files.
